OMAR NAZIF

Office Managing Partner

As the Managing Partner of Latham's San Diego office, Omar Nazif's leadership and experience help drive the success of the firm in the community. He coordinates 215 lawyers and professional staff as they advise clients ranging from local start-ups to multinational corporations.

In his project finance and development practice, Omar represents sponsors, lenders, and investors on debt and tax equity financings of renewable energy projects and other energy transition matters, with particular experience working on solar, wind, energy storage, and carbon capture projects. For example, he recently advised Harvestone Low Carbon Partners in a first-of-its-kind carbon capture and sequestration transaction and advised Clearway Energy Group in a $700 million solar energy and battery storage construction financing in California. Having previously worked in the firm's San Francisco, London, and Dubai offices, he brings a unique perspective to clients developing projects in the US and abroad.
