NOTABLE | NONPROFIT BOARD LEADERS

Meet 81 business leaders who lend their professional skills and connections to champion nonprofit missions and enrich our communities.

Matthew Walch

National Board Chair, Prevent Child Abuse America; Partner, Latham & Watkins

Nonprofit contribution: Walch has served as a leader on the board of Prevent Child Abuse America for nearly a decade, chairing the board for the last four years. His leadership fosters relationships with affiliated chapters, and he has secured pro bono services and funding through Latham & Watkins, amplifying PCA America's prevention initiatives.

Biggest professional win: Walch has achieved litigation victories for clients such as Dalton Education and Pharma Logistics, defending them against trade secret and copyright claims, and has secured multimillion-dollar judgments for others.

Other contributions: Walch serves on the boards of the Legal Aid Society and Metropolitan Family Services, mentors new board members, and contributes through the Richard Linn American Inn of Court to promote legal integrity in intellectual property law.
